Emergent Learning Centers provide individualized, evidence-based interventions for children and youth in Hawai'i who require a higher level of support. Our approach is rooted in applied behavior analysis (ABA) while incorporating relational frame theory (RFT) to enhance cognitive flexibility and problem-solving, and acceptance and commitment therapy (ACT) to support emotional regulation and value-driven behaviors. Our services include one-on-one intervention focusing on skill acquisition, communication, and daily living, as well as group-based learning to foster socialization and interactive skill-building. We also offer consultation services for families, educators, and community providers to ensure consistency across learning environments. With support available in our dedicated treatment centers, in-home settings, and schools, we strive to provide meaningful interventions that respect the values of the local community while equipping children with the skills needed to lead fulfilling lives.
